Public Defender Corps

CURRENTLY ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS; DEADLINE: DECEMBER 17, 2010 AT 5 PM

Equal Justice Works and the Southern Public Defender Center have partnered to develop the Public Defender Corps, a pilot project that will provide fellowships for top students to engage in indigent defense with a strong training and support structure. These will be three year fellowships inside select public defender offices. This initiative addresses the ongoing national crisis of failing to provide quality representation to accused persons who cannot afford counsel. Applicants to Public Defender Corps will undergo a rigorous selection process. Once selected, they will receive expert advocacy training and mentoring, and be integrated into a community of defenders to help them develop the skills needed to provide the highest quality of representation to clients and imbue them with a commitment to indigent defense reform. Application instructions and additional information about the Public Defender Corps Fellowships are available online at www.equaljusticeworks.org under the Programs tab.

Nat'l Institute on Criminal Tax Fraud—14th Circuit ABA Members

ABA VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITY IN SAN FRANCISCOCURRENTLY ACCEPTING VOLUNTEER APPLICATIONS; CONFERENCE DATE: DECEMBER 2-3, 2010

Interested in tax law? Want to network with attorneys in the field? 3-5 student volunteers are needed. These student volunteers will have their conference registration fee waived in exchange for their services. Students are not expected to attend the entire conference. Instead, you can volunteer in shifts or all day based on your availability. When not volunteering, students are free to either attend the conference or return to campus for class if necessary. Most interestingly, volunteers will also be able to attend the conference reception. With the number of practicing attorneys expected, this will be an exciting networking opportunity. Duties may vary for each event. Specifically, students will be needed to help prepare conference materials, aid with various registration tables, and attend panels to collect CLE registration forms. Again, outside their volunteer commitment, students are free to attend or free to leave. Any ABA members who would like to volunteer need to send Richard A. Manhattan their name, address, phone, email and ABA#, as well as the days and times you are able to volunteer. Non-ABA members may also volunteer; however, preference will be given to ABA members. Space is available on a first-come-first-served basis.
