Resources for OCI and Other Interviews

In preparation for your upcoming interviews, please view the intranet video presentation that discusses both screening and callback interviews (the second half of the video deals with callback interviews). Also available on the intranet in the career services resources section are two separate checklists for screening interviews and callback interviews.

If you have any questions regarding the scheduling of your interviews, please contact Kim Thomas at ksthomas@ucdavis.edu. If you have questions about your upcoming interviews or the process, please reach out to any of the career counselors - Natalie Butcher (nbutcher@ucdavis.edu), Shannon Kahn (smkahn@ucdavis.edu), Tim Griffiths (tgriffiths@ucdavis.edu), or Craig Compton (crcompton@ucdavis.edu).

Great Resource for Employer Research - Vault!

As you navigate OCI, we want to remind you to research the employers. We recently subscribed to Vault, which is a great resource for you to use when analyzing law firms and other employers. Here is the link for UC Davis students to access the exclusive Vault content: <http://access.vault.com/career-insider-login.aspx?aid=256816>. In addition, to information regarding firms, Vault provides a lot of other industry information, career guides and tips for interviewing. We encourage everyone to log in and review the resources.

Those of you preparing for OCI, we encourage you to also review www.nalpdirectory.com and the employers' websites.

DOJ Tax Division - Law Student Internships and the Attorney General's Honors Program

We encourage you to consider applying, as appropriate, for the Department of Justice's Volunteer Legal Internships, Summer Law Internship Program (SLIP), or the Attorney General's Honors Program. Specifically, we encourage you to consider the Department of Justice Tax Division.

The Tax Division is a great place to spend a summer or semester or to start a legal career. Tax Division attorneys are litigators, pure and simple. Although tax forms the background of their cases, they represent the United States in cases involving a wide spectrum of cutting-edge and interesting issues in federal district, bankruptcy, and appellate courts, as well as state courts, across the country. Tax Division attorneys investigate and prosecute individuals and entities engaged in a wide variety of domestic and international tax fraud schemes and evasion; file suits to enjoin fraudulent tax return preparers and promoters of tax scams or other fraudulent activity; and defend the United States when suits are brought against the IRS with respect to refund claims, disclosure actions, and claims arising under the Freedom of Information Act.

For a would-be prosecutor, the Tax Division is one of the few places where you can begin prosecuting federal white-collar cases immediately after passing the bar. Aspiring civil litigators are assigned a docket of their own cases from the very first day. These are experiences that are simply unmatched in the private sector.

The Tax Division is ranked as "one of the best places to work" in government by the Partnership for Public Service. The Tax Division seeks to create a work environment and organizational culture that reflect the diversity of American society and that foster the success of every employee by appreciating and building upon the skills, experiences, and uniqueness that each employee brings to the workplace. They also place a high value on diversity of experience and cultural perspective and encourage applications from all interested eligible candidates, including attorneys of all ages from all ethnic and racial backgrounds, all sexual orientations and gender identities, political affiliations, marital or parental statuses, religious backgrounds, with or without disabilities, and with or without military service.

Law Student Internships: The SLIP is the Department's competitive recruitment program for compensated summer internships. The Tax Division also offers uncompensated volunteer internship opportunities for students during the academic year, usually for work-study credit. Law students who have completed at least one full semester of law school by the application deadline are eligible to apply for SLIP, however the majority of SLIP interns work at the Department during the summer between their second and third years of law school. The SLIP is also open to recent law school graduates between graduation and the start of a judicial clerkship or full-time qualifying legal fellowship. Volunteer internships are available to all currently enrolled law students.

The Tax Division anticipates hiring approximately 15 summer law interns for the summer of 2017. They will also be hiring up to 15 volunteers during each semester of the next year. You can find out more about the SLIP, including how to apply, at <http://www.justice.gov/legal-careers/summer-law-intern-program>. Please note that this year, the online centralized electronic application opened on July 31, 2016, and will close on September 6, 2016. Information about the Department's Volunteer Internship Opportunities, including how to apply, can be found at <https://www.justice.gov/legal-careers/volunteer-legal-internships>.

Full-Time Attorney Positions: The Honors Program is the Department's recruitment program for entry-level attorneys, and is the only way the Department hires law students directly out of law school. Judicial law clerks, full-time graduate law program (LLM) students, and law school graduates in qualifying full-time legal fellowships are also eligible. The first opportunity for law students to apply for the Honors Program is the summer before their third year of law school.

The Tax Division anticipates hiring 6 entry-level attorneys for the Civil Trial and Appellate Sections and 6 entry-level attorneys for the Criminal Enforcement Sections through the Honors Program. You can find out more about the Honors Program, including how to apply, at <http://www.justice.gov/legal-careers/entry-level-attorneys>. Again, please note that this year the online centralized electronic application opened on July 31, 2016, and will close on September 6, 2016.

Everything You Need to Know About Government Honors Attorney

Programs

For the Class of 2017:

Attorney positions in government (the federal government especially) can be tough to come by. One major exception: government honors programs. Each year, many government departments recruit and hire for a limited number of openings reserved for recent graduates. Competition for these programs is often intense, but grades are only one part of what the agencies usually look for. Commitment to working in government, subject-matter expertise and/or experience, and long-term potential are all important factors, so everyone interested is encouraged to apply.

Hiring for government honors positions varies by agency, but many start the process now (late summer, early fall) for the coming year! So if you're interested, the time to start paying attention is now!

You can find extensive listings for government honors programs (including federal, state and local), broken out for you by agency and by deadline, here: <http://arizonahandbooks.com/u/ucdlaw>. Please contact Career Services for the password. Here are a few examples of upcoming opportunities:

- U.S. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau Brandeis Honors Attorney Program:

DEADLINE TO APPLY: October 21, 2016
- Colorado Attorney General's Fellowship Program:
<http://www.coloradoattorneygeneral.gov/employment/fellowships>
DEADLINE TO APPLY: November 18, 2016

For the Class of 2018:

Many government agencies offer summer "honors" internships to law students for their second summer, but hiring starts early: late summer and early fall of the preceding year. If you'd like to work for a federal, state or local government agency during summer 2017, we strongly encourage you to begin perusing listings and applying now. You can find those listings broken out for you by deadline and agency, here: <http://arizonahandbooks.com/u/ucdlaw>. Please contact Career Services for the password.

As always, please email or come see Timothy Griffiths (tgriffiths@ucdavis.edu) in the Career Services Office for more details or if you have questions!

Arnold & Porter LLP Veterans and Affiliates to Class of 2018

We hope that you will consider being a part of our 2017 summer program in our Denver, Houston, Los Angeles, New York, San Francisco, or Washington office. Please feel free to visit our careers page to learn more about our firm and our attorneys.

An increasing number of individuals entering today's professional workforce bring with them a unique set of skills developed while serving in our Armed Forces. Arnold & Porter LLP highly values these individuals. As fellow veterans who have made the transition from military service to the legal profession, we would like to share why Arnold & Porter seeks someone with your abilities, and invite you to consider us among your many employment options for next summer and beyond.

- Arnold & Porter values the knowledge, skills, and characteristics veterans bring to their legal careers. Veterans have a practiced ability to communicate clearly and concisely, organize and manage complex and often competing tasks, and work efficiently and effectively in a diverse organization. Additionally, veterans have unmatched leadership experience and character that reflect teamwork, dedication, professionalism, and ethics. At Arnold & Porter, these skills are in demand on a daily basis.
- Arnold & Porter has a long and active tradition of providing pro bono legal services in support of veterans, including a significant U.S. Supreme Court victory, in March 2011, when the Supreme Court ruled unanimously for the Firm's client, David Henderson, a Korean war veteran who missed the deadline for filing an appeal while hospitalized for his disability, in Henderson v. Shinseki. Also, Arnold & Porter attorneys secured the pardon for Lt. Henry Ossian Flipper, the

- first African American graduate of West Point.
- Arnold & Porter provides new associates with ample opportunity to develop their talents and assume meaningful responsibility in a wide variety of practice areas and legal matters. From its pro bono work to its litigation, regulatory, and transactional practices, Arnold & Porter is keen on leveraging the skills of its veterans in meaningful and mutually beneficial ways.
- The firm actively supports the self-formed affinity group for veterans called Arnold & Porter Veterans & Affiliates or APVA. APVA was founded in 2014 and it consists of individuals with and without military experience who desire to participate in recruiting and outreach programs, pro bono work, and internal support networks focused on improving support for military veterans both internally and externally.

If you have any questions about the Firm, or our recruiting process, please don't hesitate to contact any member of our recruiting team.
