REQUESTING COMPLIMENTARY REVIEW COPIES

Most legal publishers provide complimentary review copies to law faculty for selected texts used in course instruction. To facilitate ordering review copies, the Library has prepared this guide which includes a list of major publishers that faculty, or faculty support, can contact directly to place requests for specific titles. The order process involves indentifying suitable titles by browsing or searching online catalogs and then contacting each publisher separately to place a request. Some publishers provide an online request form and others provide e-mail contact information; where it is known, a local vendor representative is provided.

When contacting publishers, be prepared to provide the course name, number of students expected and when the course will be offered. Some publishers will not provide a complimentary copy but may be willing to provide a deep discount in situations, for example, when the text is not adopted for the class but is used in class preparation.

Faculty may also request that a librarian assist in identifying titles that may be suitable for a course; to request librarian assistance, send an e-mail message to: lawlibref@ucdavis.edu.
