We invite you to find out for yourself how the UC Davis School of Law maintains the highest quality legal education and the highest quality learning environment possible. Selecting a law school is one of the most important decisions you will ever make. When choosing a law school, it is important not only to see the campus and tour the facility but also to interact with faculty, staff, alumni and students.

What makes King Hall different is our commitment to student success. The cooperative, vibrant community this commitment creates is unmatched at any other institution of legal education. To preserve this atmosphere, we intentionally keep the number of students enrolled small and the faculty-student ratio low. There is no doubt that expectations for achievement are great, and the instruction and curriculum are rigorous.

At King Hall, you will learn from a nationally and internationally distinguished faculty who are recognized experts in a broad range of diverse legal specialties. The faculty and staff are encouraging, generous and able to provide the kind of individualized guidance it takes for students to flourish. Our approach works! When students leave King Hall, they take with them the community spirit we inspire along with competencies necessary to excel in courtrooms, boardrooms and halls of justice worldwide.

We extend this invitation to join us at our open house or we can arrange for an individual tour at your convenience.
