Bring the following documents to your local DMV office:

- Proof of Identity: 1 DOCUMENT that shows your date of birth and your true full name. If an identity document does not show your true full name, you must bring an additional name change document that includes your true full name.
NOTE: Form I-94 alone is NOT sufficient to prove your identity and must be shown together with your Employment Authorization Document.
- Proof of Social Security Number (if eligible): 1 ORIGINAL document that shows your name and full SSN. If you are not eligible for an SSN, skip this step.
- Proof of Residency: 2 DOCUMENTS that show your name and the same CA mailing address that is on your driver license or ID card application. If your name does not appear on any residency documents, you may bring a document that traces your relationship to a person whose name appears on a residency document. If a residency document shows a different name than yours, you must bring an additional name change document.
